The Stranger's Hospital.

Through the liberality of a private citizen of New York, the above-named Institution has recently been established, and is now open for the reception of patients. The Hospital is situated in a healthful locality, and is provided with the most modern and approved appliances for the comfort, welfare, and treatment of the sick. Its wards are spacious and well ventilated; Russian, Turkish and Medicated Baths are comprised among its bathing accommodations. Especial care has been exercised in the selection of faithful and capable nurses. The Hospital is intended to afford to persons of moderate means the best and most efficient aid in the treatment of medical and surgical diseases.

One half of its beds are free, for the reception of such worthy persons, requiring hospital treatment, as may be unable to pay the customary charges.

Persons of ample means will not be admitted except under special circumstances, and after application has been made to the Resident Physician of the Institution by a member of the Visiting Staff.

The Hospital has ample capacity for two hundred patients. It is divided into four departments, as follows:

- 1st. A General Medical Department.
- 2d. A General Surgical Department.
- 3d. A Lying-in Department, including Diseases of Females.
- 4th. A Genito-Urinary Department, including Diseases of the Skin.

GENERAL RULES AND REGULATIONS.

The charge for Board is Seven dollars per week, payable monthly in advance.

Private rooms from Twenty to Twenty-five dollars per week.

For children, Three dollars per week.

Cases of sudden injury occurring in the vicinity will be temporarily cared for without charge.

No cases of contagious disease will be admitted.

No incurable cases will be received. Such cases as, after thorough and satisfactory medical treatment, may be pronounced chronic, and cannot be further relieved, will not be retained for an indefinite period.

Application for admission must be made to the Resident Physician personally, by the friends of patients, or (if necessary) by letter, and not by patients in person, as all applicants must be examined by the Resident Physician at their places of abode, before admission to the Hospital.

Applications from the country must be accompanied with the certificate of a responsible physician, giving a concise history of the disease or difficulty, and condition of the applicant.

The Stranger's Hospital is designed to afford a home in sickness for permanent as well as transient residents of the city, who are unable to obtain at home or hotel the care and treatment of which they stand in need. It also admits those from the country afflicted with grave or unusual diseases, requiring for their relief a special skill and experience, not readily attainable at their homes.

The accommodations for private patients are ample and commodious and afford every desirable comfort and convenience for the sick or convalescent. For the benefit of the latter class, the Patron of the Hospital has established a Reading Room, furnished with fine pictures, and a Chess Room; both of which on appointed evenings are made available to residents of the vicinity.
